The Secret To Win In Life

Life in general, is truly uncertain and unpredictable. The moment that we close our eyes, no one in this world has that special ability wherein in an instant; they could see what the future will bring. In reality, whether you are a poor man living in the outskirts or a rich man that everyone looks up to, we are all completely blind and clueless walking through the journey of life. We are all players of the biggest gamble game and losing to it will change not only your life, but also the life and security of your family. The game of life is indeed tricky, so having a backup plan is necessary. Being intelligent and determined are the overrated cards in winning, yet being wise is the key that will keep a person in playing. Just like what Dave Ramsey had quoted, "Term life insurance is part of a good defensive plan. It is indeed better to be prepared by acquiring life insurance, rather than being sorry for giving emotional and financial burden to your loved ones." Life insurance keeps the lives of many families around the globe and it also serves as one of the foundation that keeps them completely stable.

My father, who is the breadwinner of the family, is our most valuable player in the game of life. My deeps night talks with him linger my mind and I remembered asking him a random question which is somehow about his personal life. I asked him what his greatest accomplishment was. To be honest, I expected that his answer will be something about his profession or maybe his travel experience abroad since he is an OFW, but his answer left my mouth agape because his answer was really intriguing and quite unusual. He gave me a sweet smile and uttered this words; "my greatest accomplishment anak is securing your future." My mind was really puzzled that time and I know he could already sense my questioning look, so he said this simple statement that changed by perspective in life.

"I want to protect the things that matter to me. Life is too short and unpredictable, so I had already prepared for the future. I am an advance thinker anak. I still want to fulfill my promise even if my time comes. I want my family to still experience the best and comfort life even if I'm gone. Keeping you all financially secured puts my heart and mind at ease, so I already bought a life insurance. That is indeed my greatest achievement in life."

Those powerful words made me think so deeply. It made me realized that working hard is just a short term goal, and life insurance isn't just a piece of contract. Life insurance serves as the protector of your way of life and your future. Having a life insurance goes along with care and love.

Family is our home and a home needs a sturdy foundation. There are several factors that make the family intact, yet having life insurance makes the home the strongest. Assurance in keeping your hard work should be the top priority. Even if the most unexpected calamities happen in your life, it won't destroy what you have easily. It may sound like a burden during the first few years yet if this is the main key in keeping life stable; why not try to avail it.

We have to be wise enough to consider the things that may happen in the future. It is a good thing that my father is wise enough to secure our future. He believes that if you truly value hard work, you want it to be secured. He knows for a fact that life can sometimes be cruel during the most unexpected times. That's the reason why this said insurance is important for all of us.

Because of a strong support, I am definitely sure that I and my sister can achieve our future goals because we are able to continue our studies in higher education. Our home will remain indestructible because the insurance provides us income due to the fact that we are prepared. We can stand alone and can still continue to live. Through the help of it, we can pay our daily expenses. No matter what life brings to us, we are prepared because we are certain that everything is settled. If the foundation is in good state, then we don't have anything to be worried about.

Money can't replace the loss of a loved one; however, life insurance benefits can provide a cushion to help our loved ones financially in the long run. We can't change the future but we can be prepared for it. Having a weak foundation due to doubts and excuses wouldn't do anything good. Keep in mind that life is full of surprises. Some are exciting new adventures and sometimes it can turn your world upside down. If you already have the key towards the security of your loved ones, then grab the opportunity. Having their lives ensured is just a sign that you genuinely love someone.
